MRS. DILLMAN'S STATEMENT.

The Dying Woman Relates the Details of Her Husband's Brutal Attack.

Easton, Pa., April 9 .- Coroner Ubler visited the alms-house to-day and took the statement of Mrs. John Dillman, whose throat was cut by her husband last week. and who is rapidly growing worse. Her story, told as best possible under the trying and painful circumstances, is this Her maiden name was Charlotte McNear, and she was the daughter of William Mc-Near, of Hanover township. She married Dillman twenty years ago, and lived in various places with him, principally South Bethlehem, Freemansburg and Redington. Six months ago, while living at the laster place, Dillman threatened to kill her-They went to the alms-house in January with four children, remained two weeks. then went to Mrs. Dillman's brother's, in Bethlehem, and two weeks later the wife and children returned to the alms-house. while Dillman went to Fracksville, near Mahanay City.

On the 28th of March he reappeared a the alms-house with a new dress for Mrs-Dillman and asked her to go to South Both lehem, as he had rented a house. They accordingly started next morning. Dillman was in a good humor all the time. When near Hecktown he said he would turn in a lane, as it was a short cut to their destina tion. Just after entering the lane the man seized his wife, threw her down, and placing a knee on her body, said he was tired of her and would kill her. She implored him to desist, and to let her live apart from him but he paid no heed to her, but drew a piece of cord from his pocket, tied her hands, and then, opening a knife, cut her throat, she all the time entreating him to spare her life. He then ran across the fields. The rest of the story, how she walked 500 yards to a house, then a mile to Hecktown and finally was driven to the alms-house. has already been told.

Mrs. Dillman suffers a great deal. She cannot speak unless her throat is tightly bandaged. Food is passed to her throat through the opening in the neck. Twice this opening has been sewed up, but immediately after coughing sets in, and the action in the throat sever the stiches. When speaking, Mrs. Dillman frequently uses water to riuse her throat, as it becomes very dry and parched. The windpipe has been severed, and when she coughs it sometimes falls far into the chest. Her case is a remakable one, and in the event of her recovery will be one of the most wonderful on record.

HOG THIEF HANGED.

A Saturday Evening Matinee in Jefferson County, Mo. Porost, Mo., April 9 .- The case of Mack Marsden, the hog thief, culminated in a lynching near De Soto, in Jefferson county. Long before Marsden was arrested for stealing hogs he was regarded as a desperate character, to be dreaded by every honest man. Two murders that had never been so'ved were attributed to him. One was that of a man named Vail, who was killed for his money and his cabin fired to conceal the crime. The other was that of DRAPING, and all the FINISHING PARTS of Joseph Yerger, who was slain at his own door at Antonia Postoffice, not far from Hillsbore, the county seat.

He was tried at Hillsboro Saturday and admitted to bail. On his way home to Sandy Creek Bridge he was met late that night by a mob at Victoria.

Without any bandying of words a rider leaped from his horse and encircled Marsden's neck in a neose at the end of a long rope. From the time the rope was put around his neck until he was taken to a tree on the hillside scarcely three minutes elapsed,

A short wait was given him while one end of the rope was thrown over a limb, Stordy hands seized the rope along tifty feet of its length, and at the signal, "All ready, go," the doomed hog thief and marderer shot up ten feet in the air and hing until he was dead. After making sure of the result the lynchers rode away toward

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs; none so trifled with by the majority of safferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a triffing or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY Progrettat, has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with threat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1851 t took a severe cold, which affected my imags. I had a terrible cough, and passed right after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Aven's Chenry Prevenals, which relieved my imags, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength, by the continue does of the Prevenals a permanent care was effected. I am now 62 years old, hate and hearty, and am satisfied your Cherry Prevenals avenue. Horace Fairbustines." Rockinghum, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup. —A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little bey, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of Ayer's Churry Prevoual, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in loss than half m hour the little patient was breathing casily. The doctor said that the Cherry Prevoual, had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,

Miss. Emma Gedney."

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AVER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.
